SPEAKERS

Spreading Success: The Multi-school Organisations

Dr Jordana Hunter

Education Program Director at The Grattan Institute

Dr Jordana Hunter is the Director of the Education Program at the Grattan Institute. She has a PhD in education policy design and implementation and has co-authored multiple reports on school education policy and school improvement.

Jordana will delve into Grattan's Multi School Organisation research, offering insights into the Reading Guarantee, sharing its implications for secondary schools, and recent findings on how schools are reimagining education, highlighting innovative approaches and lessons learned.

The Grattan Institute is a non-Government funded, independent Australian think tank who develop evidence-based public policy recommendations for Australia. All Grattan research, reports, and events are freely available online.

Thrive By Design - A Proactive Approach to Wellbeing

Meg Durham

Wellbeing Speaker & Educator

As big-hearted professionals working in schools, we frequently prioritise the needs of others over our own, resulting in emotional exhaustion and physical depletion. In this presentation, we will explore practical ways to navigate the relentless demands of school life and move forward with more energy, clarity, and confidence.
